

PISCATAWAY

Teacher will work with science center

Denise Harris, a teacher at Arbor Intermediate School, will participate in a partnership with the Center for Innovation in Engineering and Science Education at Stevens Institute of Technology.

The center has been awarded a three-year, $2 million grant from the New Jersey Department of Education to fund the Partnership to Improve Student Achievement project, in which elementary teachers will aim to improve learning in science and engineering.

— Staff report

